Eighth Annual Golf Tournament Fundraiser
an Overwhelming Success!

On October 2, 2016 the Museum hosted its eighth Annual Golf Tournament Fundraiser on the beautiful grounds of Kohanaiki Golf and Ocean Club in Kailua-Kona. Sixty golfers enjoyed perfect weather for this two-person scramble.

Richard Henderson, Chairman of the Museum's Board of Trustees, remarked that "the Kohanaiki Golf Course was spectacular, the fairways and greens were perfect, and everyone had a great time. As usual, our Golf Tournament Chairman, Warren Lee, did a great job. Our thanks go out to Joe Root and his staff for again facilitating our annual tournament on their great resort course!"

We had amazing support from the community to make this happen: 60 players participated and over 30 companies and individuals donated time, money, and prizes to make this day a winner! This year the tournament raised over $19,500 to support the development of educational programs and exhibits for the community. Mahalo to all those who made the Golf Tournament so successful!

Lyman Museum Featured on Hawaii Public Radio

HPR Live Broadcast, Nov. 16, 2016 - L-R Engineer Jason Taglianetti, HPR President and General Manager Jose A. Fajardo, HPR Board Member Barbara Hastings, Hilo Medical Center Foundation Board Member Julie Tulang.

The Museum was featured twice this November on Hawaii Public Radio. Wednesday, November 16, 7:30 AM, brought new HPR President and General Manager José A. Fajardo over from Oahu to do a mini-fund drive. He was joined on air by Museum Trustee Barbara Hastings and by Julie Tulang, Board Member of the Hilo Medical Center.

Two days later, on Friday, November 18, Beth-Ann Kozlovich broadcast the program "The Conversation" live from the Museum and was joined via internet by co-host Chris Vandercook. Chris interviewed Museum Trustee and docent Bruce McClure about the history of the Mission House, the Museum's new outreach program for students, and the planned renovation of the Island Heritage Gallery. Following "The Conversation" Sarah Bauer, HPR's Sustaining Membership Coordinator, and Ryan Finnerty, HPR's engineer for this event, recorded testimonials from HPR fans and members from East Hawai'i, Nina Buchanan, Nancy Davis, and Carol Galper.

Barbara Hastings, who serves on the boards of both the Museum and Hawaii Public Radio, arranged for both live broadcasts and for "The Conversation" to interview the Museum's own Bruce McClure. Bruce's interview can be found at:

Museum Archivist Shows Students How to Dig Into History

On October 24, Museum archivist Eric Page showed sixteen fifth graders in Mia Pereira's class at Hilo Union Elementary School how to dig into history-literally and figuratively. Using a slide show of famous Hilo landmarks and people, Eric demonstrated that historians can dig into the ground to unearth artifacts and ruins, or "dig into" other sources of information, such as libraries and archives. The students were full of questions about their school and community! The slide presentation explored the history of the Lyman Museum, Hilo Union School, Hilo Boarding School, the Lyman family, Haili Church, Queen's Walk, and the Royal Residence or Nialopa, now the site of the old Hilo Hotel. Eric may have tapped into the next generation of history researchers!

Collections Workshop Prepares Staff to Handle Disasters

When disaster strikes, museums and related organizations have a special responsibility to protect their collections from damage and loss. Some damage and loss may be unavoidable, but preparation can help museums prevent the ruin and destruction of collections, many of which are irreplaceable.

On November 10 the Museum's Curator of Collections and Exhibits, Jill Maruyama, and Archivist Eric Page attended a collections workshop, "Disaster Planning for Museums, Libraries and Cultural Resources," facilitated by the Kona Historical Society. The presenter, Malia Van Heukelem, is the preservation manager at UH-Mānoa's Hamilton Library.

Among the collections problems discussed were flooding, mold, and damage from termites, paper mites, and beetles. Tips for updating disaster plans, preparing disaster kits, and strategies for managing pests were also shared. There was even a lesson, "Canopy Making 101," on fashioning impromptu canopies to protect collections from roof leaks.
